At the Immigration Advice Services we have a team of immigration lawyers who have over 30 years experience in providing expert services and advice on asylum, citizenship, and immigration. We will always offer honest advice and a thorough review of your case to provide you with the very best service. Who we are Immigration Advice Service is a dynamic immigration law firm that provides assistance to both individual and corporate clients, including businesses and charities of all sizes, entrepreneurs, overseas investors, families and students. Many of our clients come to us through a recommendation from family, friends, colleagues or organisations that have used our services and have been highly satisfied with our assistance. At the Immigration Advice Service, our values are what truly set us apart. Our specialist immigration lawyers and advisers have decades of experience in all areas of immigration law and are specifically selected for their commitment to immigration and asylum work. In addition to being highly experienced, dedicated and passionate, many of our staff members have been through the process of immigrating to the UK themselves, either first hand or with family members and/or friends. This has given them an unrivalled insight into the more personal side of the immigration process, which they are therefore able to see from both a human and a legal perspective. This enhanced understanding of what people are going through on the personal side, including of the impact of the process on people's daily lives, means that the customer experience our clients receive from our immigration lawyers and advisers is second to none. The firm has grown consistently over the last few years. We are, therefore, large enough to provide a full range of immigration, asylum and citizenship services yet small enough to ensure that each client still enjoys the personal touch to our service. We conduct both private and publicly funded work and have been awarded the Specialist Quality Mark (SQM) for our Legal Aid work on immigration and asylum law cases. We have offices throughout the UK. Our services are therefore within easy reach, no matter your location. We believe that high quality, affordable, professional immigration advice should be accessible to all, so if you are not able to make it to one of our offices, we can provide helpful advice and guidance on the phone, or, if you are currently residing outside the UK, via Skype appointments.

Our Values

At the Immigration Advice Service, we're extremely proud of our core set of values, which we adhere to at all times. In addition to the fantastic people we have working at IAS, the values that we hold dear are what truly set us apart from most other immigration law companies.

As well as being ethical, we uphold the belief that everyone should be entitled to sound, professional immigration and asylum advice, and we endeavour to make sure that this is the case through a core set of principles, pro bono and charitable work.
